OUR APPROACH

Our Human Resources Challenges survey was designed to understand, in this rapidly changing environment, key challenges organizations are facing in the latter part of the year. We targeted HR executives in a mix of public and private organizations in growing industries.

Remote Work Challenges

When asked about their challenges surrounding remote work, we found that facilitating culture and a positive employee experience, communications, managing employees, and change management were their top challenges.

Employee Communications Challenges

When asked about challenges with employee communications, we found that facilitating consistent communication from managers, managing the confusion around unconnected systems, and sending reminders and notifications that employees will read are top issues.

83%

Are comfortable using chatbots to enhance employee communications in their company

Chatbot Usage

More than 80% of survey responders have used chatbots to get answers to questions for either work or personal use and would feel comfortable using chatbots as part of their work tech stack and collaboration strategy.
